

Virginia529SM

2019 IRS Form 1099-Q Fact Sheet

If there was a distribution from your Virginia529 account in 2019, Virginia529 will issue an IRS Form 1099-Q for your account. If the distribution was made directly to the beneficiary or to a K-12 school or qualified higher education institution, the 1099-Q must be sent to the beneficiary. Generally all other 1099-Qs will be sent to the account owner. As an account owner, you can also access your 1099-Q online through your secure online profile. Beneficiaries can set up their own secure login at Virginia529.com to view their 1099-Q online.

Tax Reporting Information

- If you have a non-qualified distribution from your Virginia529 account, you must report the earnings portion on your federal tax return. The 10 percent federal penalty on the earnings is also reported, typically on a separate form. Please see the instructions for your tax return and IRS Publication 970.

- If your beneficiary's qualified higher education expenses for 2019 equal or exceed your Virginia529 account distribution(s) taken during 2019, you do not need to report the earnings on your federal tax return. Remember that you cannot use the same higher education expense to qualify for more than one federal tax benefit. For example, you may not use tax-free distributions from both a Virginia529 account and a Coverdell Education Savings Account for the same expense.

- Certain non-qualified distributions will not be subject to the federal penalty of 10 percent of the earnings. The penalty does not apply if:

- (i) the distribution was paid on or after the beneficiary's death;
- (ii) the distribution was made because the beneficiary is disabled;
- (iii) the distribution is included in income because the beneficiary received a tax-free scholarship or fellowship up to the same amount of the distribution; or
- (iv) the distribution is included in income because the expense it was used to pay (i.e., tuition) was also used to qualify for the American Opportunity Tax Credit (formerly the Hope Scholarship Credit) or Lifetime Learning credit.

In any of these situations, although you will not be subject to the penalty, you will still likely owe tax on the earnings portion of the distribution.

Additional Notes

- Remember to keep appropriate documentation (copies of invoices, meal plan contracts, or textbook receipts, for example) for tax purposes.

- If you are a Virginia taxpayer, non-qualified distributions may require the recapture of prior Virginia income tax deductions.

- If you live in a state other than Virginia, please check with your state's tax department to determine your state's treatment of income from another state's qualified tuition program.

Find information about tax benefits for education including examples in IRS Publication 970, also available by calling toll-free 1-800-829-1040.

For more detailed information, please see the benefits guide for Prepaid529 and the distribution guide for Invest529. Please also contact your tax advisor.